College Teacher Has Excellent Trip to London

Miss Mattie M. Dykes, On Leave for Advanced Work, Tells of Ocean Voyage on Boat With Gold Star Mothers.

Miss Mattie Dykes, who was last year acting head of the English department of the College, and who is now on leave from the College doing advanced graduate work in English, in London, recently wrote a letter to Mr. LaMar of the College asking for the College paper and telling some of her experiences in getting to London. The letter in part follows:

Please check me up as a paid Alumni Association member and send the paper to me at the address that follows my name. Please don't let anything happen to the paper so that I miss a copy. You see, I want to keep an eye on all of you!

My trip across was the most interesting voyage that I have ever had despite the fact that I had grave misgivings about my choice of boat when I found it was to carry a group of Gold Star Mothers on their pilgrimage to their sons' graves in France. As the passenger list posted on the ship as we went on seemed to be almost entirely made up of the Mothers, I feared I should have a most depressing voyage. But not so. On the contrary, it was lively from start to finish. Eleven years have done much to heal broken hearts, and besides, this trip was such an adventure to so many of the mothers that the very thrill of it kept them from dwelling upon sad memories.

When I say adventure, I really mean it. On-board were some women who had never seen a train, much less been on one, until they came to New York to take the boat for Europe. Think of what the trip must have meant in their lives! Some of the women were foreign born and had come overseas to America. Now they were going back in such grand style they could hardly believe it was not all a dream from which they should suddenly awake! Many had never seen the ocean; many had never been on a boat of any sort. Adventure seemed to take away the years. They were out for thrills. They craved new experience.

The oldest woman on board—she will be eighty the first day of October—asked me to teach her to play golf. And a grand time she had! "Just think!" I heard her tell a number of times afterwards, "I tied the score when I played golf with the little school teacher from Missouri!" And the "little school teacher from Missouri" did not tell anybody how the little old lady used her putter for a pusher and made holes under par! Yes, it was a real adventure to many of them.

They were not all new at traveling. Some were wealthy women who had traveled widely. Some were highly educated and brilliant women. They were having a good time too, helping the others have a pleasant voyage. I saw no signs of snobbishness whatever. Their spirit was excellent. The women who could not read nor write were not allowed to feel uncomfortable and were as much a part of the group as any.

I thoroughly enjoyed myself seeking out different types and drawing them out. I found some interesting women. Many had had real experiences that would make gripping novels were they put into print. They came from almost every state in the Union.

Seeking out the Mothers and entertaining them as well as getting keen enjoyment myself was not my only diversion. After the first two or three days, when I slept every minute I could, I played all day then danced until midnight. We played deck golf—which has far more exciting hazards than miniature golf, for every roll of the ship makes a new and unusual one—quits, and shuffle-board. I was no good at quito, but at the others I could hold my own.

As there were only one hundred sixty-three passengers and three hundred forty in the crew, we were well taken care of. The crew tried especially to see that the few of us regular passengers had a good time. The captain took me up to see his quarters and to show me how he managed the ship. He explained the use of the compass and the method of determining the weight to be carried in salt or fresh water, and told me many things about ships. It was thrilling to stand up on the bridge with not a thing to obstruct the view ahead. It looked as if we were soon coming to the edge of the water with nothing in sight beyond. No wonder Columbus's men wanted to turn back when they had no assurance that land lay beyond! I hope you are all getting your work whipped into shape for the fall quarter. My own work will soon be under way. At present I am seeking historical and literary shrines.

Sincerely yours,
Crosby Hall Mattie M. Dykes.

Alumni Association Sets Goal for Dues

S. T. C. alumni association dues for the year are beginning to come in and the officers of the organization have high hopes of reaching the new record of 214 paid members, the new goal set for this year, which is 100 more than last year, but which is a very small number compared to the number which the alumni association of the Northwest Missouri State Teachers College should boast.

Dues are $1.00 for the year and entitle the member to receive the College paper for the College year from September to May.

At various times during this school year the names of graduates and former students of the College who become members of the association by paying their dues will be published so that those interested may see the list grow. It is hoped to reach the desired goal.

Those who have paid dues at the present time are as follows:

Dorothy McCord, Memphis, Mo.
Mary Kidwell, Centerville, Mo.
Luelle Qualls, 1304 E. Grand, Des Moines, Iowa.
Helen Tebow, 9427 S. Broadway, St. Louis, Mo.
Miriam Geyer, Grandview H. S., Me Falls.
Lucille Holmes, 3316 Olive St., Kansas City, Mo.
Dick Runyan, Albany, Mo.
Dick Baker, Y. M. C. A., St. Joseph.
Eliza Donaldson, Vermontville, Mich.
Sarah Donaldson, Maryville.
Etta Suetterlin, Maryville.
Alva M. Burch, Ironwood, Michigan.
L. G. Somerville, Maryville.
Edith Whittenmore, Conception Jet.
Merna Williams, University H. S., Columbia.

Willard Williams, Supt., Corning, Mo.
Gordon Trotter, Flat River, Mo.
S. C. Richeson, Chillicothe.
Izzy M. Richardson, Mount City.

Students Are Given Opportunity to Write

The membership for the staff of the Northwest Missourian for the year is being made up. Several students have indicated their desire to become members at the present time, and others interested should report at once to Mr. LaMar of the College faculty.

Students who write successfully for the paper during the school year are eligible to membership in the Missouri College Newspaper Association. The Association plan for S. T. C. was selected last year. The members of the staff will be expected to report for meetings for a few minutes once or twice a week.

One of the purposes of the organization is to make the Northwest Missourian a high ranking collegiate and educational publication. Another purpose is to provide opportunity for College students who care to do so to receive training in news and other writing and to follow their own bent in this art.

Tournament Is to Be Held on November 7-8

Announcement Concerning Outdoor Basketball Tournament for 19 Counties in District is Sent Out.

Letters have been sent out from the College to all the high schools in the Northwest Missouri District announcing the outdoor basketball tournament which may be held here on November 7 and 8. Managers for the various 19 counties have also been appointed and notified of the dates of the tournament.

It has been suggested that counties hold their tournaments on or before November 1. The teams which represent the different counties at the District tournament, at the College gymnasium in Maryville, will be guests of the College at the Warrensburg-Bearcat football game, Friday night on the new College field if the tournament is held at this time. Some of the boys will perhaps also get in on some of the other activities at the College which will be going on in honor of the Dads of College students, since Friday, November 7 is "Dad's Day" at the College.

The letter sent out bearing announcements for the tournament, names of managers for the counties and names of schools which have paid high school association dues to the present time is as follows:

Dear Superintendent:
The Northwest Missouri district outdoor basketball tournament will be held in the gymnasium of the State Teachers College at Maryville, Missouri on November 7 and 8.

The State Teachers College will provide room and board for a team of eight men and one faculty representative. Entertainment will begin with lodging Thursday evening and will continue until the team is eliminated, provided all meals are taken at the College Cafeteria on tickets furnished by the Entertainment Committee. Each coach will pay for lodgings of his team at place assigned and take receipted bill for same. He will then present the bill to Stephen G. LaMar, and get refund for same up to time first train is out after elimination. All entertainment must be at places assigned by the committee.

The teams and coaches will be guests of the College at the Warrensburg-Bearcat game on the 7th of November. (Continued on page 6)

Marketing Class Goes to St. Joseph

The marketing class 121, took an interesting and very instructive trip to St. Joseph Saturday, October 11. The Swift & Co. packing house was the first place visited. The guide conducted the group through the plant and pointed out the entire process from the slaughter of the animals to the packing of the meat for shipment. At Armour's the refrigeration system was particularly observed. After nearly three hours at the packing houses, members of the class were glad to visit another type of industry. Going through Chas. Candy Co. they were shown candy in all stages of manufacture. Incidentally, it is rumored that samples of candy mysteriously disappeared.

A table was reserved for the entire group at the Chamber of Commerce dinner. Immediately after lunch the crowd journeyed to the Grain Belt Co. where a thorough explanation was given of the process of making and packing Geo. Bee Feeds. The next place visited was one familiar in name to us; that is, the studio of KGBX. The group was let in on some of the secrets and methods of broadcasting. The last place visited on the tour was one of the "newest" places in St. Joe. The St. Joseph News-Press was in the process of being printed at the Press office. Each step in the printing of a newspaper was demonstrated to the group.

Those who made the trip were Mr. E. W. Salveson, Alton McFarland, Mildred Sandison, Lawrence Brown, Jim Seelye, John Smith, Ed Dietz, Glenn Duncan, James Houseman, Harold Christen, Frank Daniels, Dan Blood, Brookings Cox, Carol Russell, Dean Rybolt, and Fred Jennings, and Joe Trullinger. The trip was made in the College bus.

MISS HETTIE M. ANTHONY
Head of the Home Economics Department of the College. National President of Kappa Omicron Phi. The Homecoming dinners are usually prepared and served under her expert direction.

Announcements

The orator who will represent S. T. S. in the State Inter-Collegiate Oratorical Contest which will be held in Jefferson City, December 6, will be selected at the tryout at the College in Social Hall on November 10.

The length of the orations will be limited to fifteen minutes. The subject must be any dealing with world peace, but cannot suggest war as a means of bringing about peace.

It is suggested by the national association, but not required, that the peace oration this year be on some phase of the League of Nations. Students interested should see Mr. Miller at once.

Prize Is Offered

The organization at the College which gets pictures of all of its members in for the "Tower" first will be given a $5.00 cash prize. There are only 10 more days until the class contest closes.

Reservations for the alumni and former student dinner must be made before 3 p. m., Thursday, October 23. The dinner will be served by girls from the home economics department of the College under the direction of Miss Anthony. Seniors in the College, alumni, former students, Hickory Sticks, and others are welcome.

Vilhelmur Stefansson will speak at the College Auditorium Wednesday evening. His subject will be "Abolishing the Arctic." This is the major fall quarter entertainment. The admission is 75 cents and reserved seats may be had at Kuehn Brothers. There is no extra charge for reserved seats for students.

Burdette Yeo

The Senior Class officers of the Kansas City School of Law were recently elected. Mr. Burdette Yeo, whose home is in Maryville and who was outstanding in public speaking and other College activities while in Maryville, was elected president.

The Kansas City Star also has the following to say concerning him: Yeo is a member of Delta Theta Phi law fraternity; was circulation manager of last year's Pandex, and for the last three years a member of the law school debating team.

Dramatics Club Scores a Hit with Last Play

The Beloved Vagabond, Three-Act Romantic Comedy, Is Expertly and Professionally Produced.

Thursday night, October 16, was one of triumph for the ten dramatic students of the College who appeared at the auditorium in Lawrence G. Worchester's romantic three-act comedy, "The Beloved Vagabond," staged as the major dramatic event of the fall quarter under the auspices of the Dramatics Club. The auditorium was filled almost to capacity.

So far as those present were concerned the play might have appropriately been called "Smiles and Chuckles," for smiles were much in evidence both during and after the play and chuckles were also much in evidence continually during the performance with the exception of a few tense and serious seconds.

Not only were there smiles for the humor and beauty and in appreciation for the excellent manner in which all the characters lived their parts, but at the close of the program many commendations for the production in its entirety, were to be heard from those conversant on the production in expressing appreciation for a real evening's entertainment.

Dale Missildine, who attended Drake University last year in his home city of Des Moines, made his debut last night to a Maryville audience as the vagabond prince and lover. Everything that he said in the characterization of Jimmie Smith, the American whose ideas changed and modernized a small kingdom, carried humor and action. He was well received in this role.

Psychiatric Worker Talks to Students

Mrs. Helen Doty, psychiatric worker at the United States Veterans' Bureau Hospital in Kansas City, gave an address on "Psychiatry" before one of the advanced sociology classes taught by O. Myking Melus at the College, on Thursday afternoon, October 16. Mrs. Doty was accompanied by Miss Ethel Riemeier, executive secretary of the Buchanan County chapter of the American Red Cross. She was introduced to the class by Mrs. Fern Crull of the local Red Cross chapter.

In discussing the insanity caused by the World War Mrs. Doty said that three hundred insane ex-service men were being treated at the Kansas City Hospital and that there was a waiting list of over 1000 insane ex-service men. Mrs. Doty pointed out that insanity was not brought on suddenly, but had its foundation in maladjustments in the early life of the child. The terrible experiences of the war brought on their mental break-down.

Mrs. Doty explained the various kinds of insanity under five groups: psychoneurosis, dementia praecox, manic depressive, epileptic, and hypochondriac. She also explained the various glands of the body and the part they play in relation to behavior problems and mental abnormalities.

Dad's Day Is to Be November 7, 1930

"Dad's Day" will be observed at the College on Friday, November 7, according to an announcement made by O. Myking Melus, chairman of the Public Relations Committee at the College. The other members of the committee are: Dean Sharley Piko, Miss Hettie Anthony, Miss Mary Fisher, Miss Elizabeth Jack, P. W. Salveson, Miss Dorothy Schultz, and Dr. G. R. Selkel.

The committee met on Wednesday afternoon and outlined the following activities for the "Dad's Day": The dads will register between 9 and 10 a. m. and will spend the forenoon in visiting the classes and looking around on the campus. A banquet will be given at noon in the Residence Hall and two of the down town churches. In the afternoon special athletic events will be given in the gymnasium, possibly swimming contests and a basketball game.

The dads will eat their evening meal with their own sons and daughters. In the evening the dads will be guests of the College at the last home football game of the season between the Warrensburg Mules and the Bearcats. Between halves prizes will be given to the dad who came the longest distance, the oldest dad, the heaviest dad, and the dad who has the most sons and daughters at the College.

Mr. Melus has asked the various organizations on the campus to appoint two students each to serve as a student's committee to work with the faculty to develop further details for Dad's Day.

Members of Dramatic Club Give Program

The dramatic club held its regular meeting, Thursday morning, October 16, in Social Hall.

The program which showed much preparation on the part of those giving it, and which seemed to be highly appreciated by those who were in attendance follows: Talk, "Life of Robert Tompkins," Evert Bashor; One-act play, "Sham," written by R. Tompkins, given by the following members of the club:

Thief ..... Milo Porterfield
Clara ..... Pearl Clark
Charles ..... Harold Galt
Repartee ..... Marvin Shamberger
Student Director ..... Ruth Harris
Vocal Solo ..... Edson Miller
Talk, "Other American Satires," Ruth Milligan.

Saylor Is Working To Broadcast Games

The Publicity department with assistance from Norvel Saylor and Ford Hunter is bending efforts as well as wires trying to arrange to broadcast the next two football games with the Emporia Hornets and the Warrensburg Mules. Mr. Joe Feasom, manager at the Berry Seed Company of Chirinda, station KSO, has agreed to let the College broadcast from the station from 9 to 10 o'clock on October 24 and November 7, and Saylor has been working night and day except for one or two nights on a new amplifier for the occasions.

The boys donned their working garb and attended to some line building at the College, last Saturday, October 18. The broadcasting will probably be done from the center of the reserved seat section on the west side of the field, in an effort either to get away from the noise of the howling students or to cause the students to put forth greater noise and pep so that the radio will catch it even across the field. In order to get across the field the pep must necessarily pass through and put the winning fight into the Bearcats.

The loud speaker operator will probably be tuned in on the radio so that people in the stands will also be informed by him.

Y. W. Girls' Dream Is Now a Reality

The Y. W. C. A. girls are the owners of two cabins in the College Park. These cabins were given to the Y. W. by the College, thus making the dreams of a Y. W. hut now a reality.

The two cabins are being moved together and remodeled to meet the needs of the Association, and for many good times.

The plan is to use the cabins for all the Y. W. meetings. The members want to make it a home for the Y. W. girls and their fellow students. The remodeling is costing a considerable sum. At the regular meeting of the Y. W. Tuesday evening, October 14, many of the girls expressed their happiness and their aims for the cabin, and pledged the amount of $140 toward the "hut fund."

The committee met on Wednesday afternoon and outlined the following activities for the "Dad's Day": The dads will register between 9 and 10 a. m. and will spend the forenoon in visiting the classes and looking around on the campus. A banquet will be given at noon in the Residence Hall and two of the down town churches. In the afternoon special athletic events will be given in the gymnasium, possibly swimming contests and a basketball game.

The hut will on various occasions be given over for the use of other organizations on the campus.—G. R.

Bearcats Make Successful Step in Conference

Cape Girardeau Indians Bow 45-0. Bearcats Lose After Desperate Struggle 24-13, at Memphis, Tennessee.

M. I. A. Standing
Team	W	L	Pct.
Maryville	1	0	1000
Kirksville	1	0	1000
Warrensburg	0	1	000
Cape Girardeau	0	1	000
Springfield	0	0	000

In the most impressive of the conference openers, the Bearcats went into an early season lead in the M. I. A. A. with a thousand per cent and a 45 to 0 victory over the Cape Girardeau Indians, October 10, at the College. The Cape team, under the coaching of Geo. Flannick, was rated as one of the league's leading contenders, but the opposition failed to appear.

For the first time this year the Bearcat offense really functioned as it has been capable of doing. Play after play was good for gains, and Milner's passes were good innumerable times for long gains. Maryville showed a new style of play to the home spectators, which had the visitors guessing all the time. The backfield formations were entirely new, with one man in motion laterally on almost every play.

Max Knopp, first year man for the Bearcats, was responsible for a large number of scrimmage gains for Maryville, though Fischer, Milner, Russell, and Mahood did their share. Vic Mahood, though not in the whole game, made one of the most sensational runs of the whole affair by tearing off a long run along the west side of the field, laughingly but most effectively stiff-arming three would-be tacklers as he went.

Statistics favored Maryville by long margins in all departments. Maryville made 29 first downs to Cape's 5; Yards from scrimmage, Maryville 296, Cape 55; passes completed, Maryville 13 for 196 yards. Cape 6 for 47 yards.

The first inter-sectional game, with Southwestern University at Memphis, Tennessee, last Friday night, resulted in a 24 to 13 win for the Southern team. A United Press correspondent saw the game thus:

A snarling Bearcat, severely scratched in the early part of the game with Southwestern College here last night, rallied to score two touchdowns in the last half, only to lose a hard fought game in which scoring was frequent, by a score of 24 to 13.

The Southwestern Lynx scored in each period, but failed to make their extra points. The Maryville aggregation had difficulty in getting started, their plays being smothered, causing them to play a defensive game until the second quarter when they found their stride.

An aerial attack in the third quarter brought the Bearcats down the field to within scoring distance when a pass to Overmeier failed the first touchdown for Maryville.

The game started off with Southwestern winning the toss. After an exchange of punts Maryville was forced to kick, from which play Southwestern marched down the field to score, Hinson, Lynx right half, making 27 yards off tackle to go over the goal. LaMar, fullback, failed to kick goal.

Fischer, Maryville right half, intercepted a pass after the kickoff, but the Bearcats were forced to punt, and Southwestern carried the ball down to the one-yard line as the quarter ended. On the first play of the second quarter, Newton, quarterback, plunged over for the second touchdown. The Lynx again failed to kick goal.

From this time on the game was even, each team scoring two touchdowns. The Bearcats kicked off starting the third quarter, the Lynx again breaking through to score, with Hinson carrying the ball.

After a series of plays the Teachers rallied, using an aerial attack—that brought them down the field, Milner, right half, completing passes to J. Smith, Phelps and finally to Overmeier who scored. Smith missed a kick from placement.

In this attack the Bearcats advanced eighty yards, carrying the ball from their own 20-yard line.

The Missourians again featured an

Bearcats Win

aerial attack in the fourth quarter that was successful, Milner passing to Fischer for 40 yards that placed the ball on the Lynx 1-yard line. Here, however, the teachers drew a fifteen yard penalty. This did not daunt them and with a series of line plays and a pass Milner to Fischer, counted for a touchdown. Milner made the extra point, kicking from placement.

In the last few minutes, Ruth, Maryville center, recovered a Lynx fumble. Milner passed ineffectively, the Lynx taking the ball on their own thirty yard line, from which point they advanced the ball down the field for Newton to score. The game ended after the kick-off. Howell, a substitute Southwestern player, was ousted from the game for slugging.

Touchdowns: Overmeier, Fischer, Hinson, 2, Newton, 2. Points after touchdown, Milner from placement.

Officials: Sam Sanders, timekeeper; A. J. Convery, referee; Posclum, head-linesman; Lewis, field judge.

The following men made the trip to Memphis, which is the longest ever made by a Maryville football team:

John Smith, Overmeier, Perkins, Seely, Lewis, Hedge, Robert Dowell, Walter Dowell, Sillers, Ruth, Moore, Fischer, Milner, Mahood, Knorpp, Russell, Phelps, Don Sheetz, Leland Smith, and Mitzel.

The weather at Memphis was not as warm as was expected and therefore no temperature difficulty was met. The greatest trouble, according to one of the men who went, was that several of the Bearcats took up the southern brouge, and the other boys could hardly understand them when signals were being called.

Friday's Game May Be a Real Thriller

For the third time this season, on the night of October 24, the Bearcats will perform on the local gridiron. This time the opponent is one of the strongest teams on the 1930 schedule, the Kansas State Teachers of Emporia, Kansas.

In their four games so far this year, the Emporia Hornets have yet to taste defeat, though they have been held to tie games twice. Emporia demonstrated power, and plenty of it, in the opener with Missouri Valley, in which the Hornets won 49 to 0. The second game with the Hays, Kansas, teachers ended 0 to 0, and the next with the University of Wichita, Kansas conference leaders, was 13 to 13. Last Friday the Winfield teachers were victims, 27 to 13.

On the other hand, the Bearcats made such a strong showing in their 45 to 0 win over Cape Girardeau, that predictions for Friday night's game would be difficult to make. Both teams have power if they will exert it, and good football is nearly certain.

College Librarians Go to State Meetings

Miss Lucille Brumbaugh and Mr. C. E. Wells, librarians of the College, attended the Missouri State Library Association meeting, October 7-9, at Sedalia, Missouri. They report an interesting program. Miss Brumbaugh was made treasurer of the organization.

Mr. Wells reports that he is especially interested in the amendment to the state constitution concerning a change in the tax for libraries which the association is working on at the present time.

The following, taken from a bulletin which Mr. Wells handed the writer, tells something of the value of the proposed amendment:

An amendment to the State Constitution that will be an enduring safeguard for public libraries in Missouri, is advocated by the Missouri Library Association. Its objective is to place the public library, as an educational institution, in the same class as the public school, with a separate tax outside of the tax for general purposes.

It will not increase the library tax in any city, town or county in the state. It will not increase the library tax limit specified by a state law that has been in force more than forty years. It will prevent encroachment on library funds.

The amendment is a home rule measure. It will not and cannot in itself establish a library in any community or county without one, but it will merely provide, when a community or county wants a library and feels able to support it, that the people can vote for its establishment and levy a small tax for its maintenance.

Missouri has some of the best public libraries that will be found anywhere. They need the protection that this amendment will give them.

Of 114 counties in Missouri, there are 76 counties in which there are no tax supported public libraries. This amendment will make it much easier for libraries to be established where they do not now exist.

One million eight hundred thousand people in Missouri are without library service.

The amendment will be presented to the legislature of 1931 and, if acted upon favorably, will be submitted to the people for a referendum vote.

This amendment will place libraries in the State of Missouri on a firm legal foundation and would do much to insure their continued progress.

Younger Generation Argue Who's to Pay

The Forensic Union met Wednesday, October 8, in Social Hall in Open Forum Discussion on the burning question of the hour, Resolved: That Women Should Bear Half the Burden of Dating Expenses.

Lowell Galt trained his guns of eloquence on the negative and initiated the attack for the affirmative supporters. The affirmative was further supported by Wilbur Pettigrew, Marvin Shamberger, and Glen Duncan.

The negative attacked the question under the leadership of Dale Missildine and Howard Qualls, both gallant and eloquent exponents of the "clinging vine" and "freedom from dating expenses for women" doctrines. These two champions appealed to the "higher and nobler senses of men" and pointed out the prospective capacity played by men down through the ages. They feared a reverting to Medieval darkness and "jelly-fishness," should the motion be adopted. Carl Blackwelder lent support to this cause in a fervent manner.

The three girls present pointed out several technical points that the boys had overlooked in their arguments. Mr. Miller was drawn into the fray, thereby exposing much of his pre-marital life as well as events dating from the eventful day.

The final vote cast was 9 to 7 in favor of the negative. Nearly everyone in the room sooner or later expressed his or her opinion on this burning question. The fate of the motion hung in the balance even during the last five minutes of discussion.

In brief, the decision demands that dating expenses be paid in the usual way—by erring mortal man.—E. S.

Y. M. Gospel Team to Make All-Day Trip

The Y. M. C. A. Gospel Team will conduct two services Sunday, October 20, in Harrison County. The morning service will be given at the M. E. church at Quinsville and the evening service will be conducted at the Christian church at Bethany. Fifteen boys will make the trip in the College Bus.

Following is the program for both churches: Walter Allen, president, presiding; prelude, church pianist; song service, led by Ray Dull; devotional led by Lester Hall, assisted by Y. M. C. A. quartet; piano solo, Thomas Lawrence; scripture, Fred Larason; selection, Y. M. quartet composing Albert Hagan, Owen Thompson, William Alsop, Ben Thompson; offertory, church pianist; "Historical Background of the Y. M. C. A.," Ernest Reid; vocal solo, Keith Saville; presentation of theme, "Christianity and the Youth Movement," speakers: Dale Missildine, Clyde Sparks, H. Jerome Smith; selection, quartet; benediction, Marvin Shamberger.

The Gospel Team will go out-of-town once a month. The next date will be November 7. Ernest Reid is chairman of the committee on public worship. Last Tuesday night the Women's Council of the First Christian Church entertained at dinner the members of the team and the "Y" sponsors, A. J. Gaultfield, Stephen G. LaMar and William Holdridge.

Wallace Culver, a sophomore, spoke to the members of the Y. M. C. A. on Monday night using as his subject, "A College Man's Religion." Music specialties included a vocal solo by Edson Miller, and instrumental numbers by Carroll and Donald Gillis. New members are being taken into the organization weekly.

"We will never bring disgrace to this college, by any act of cowardice or dishonesty. We will fight for the ideals and sacred things of the college. We will respect and obey the college laws and do our best to make a like respect and reverence in others. We will transmit this college to those who come after us, greater, better, and more beautiful than it was transmitted to us."

ON DANCES
Dances are a good thing, in theory at least, and perhaps are some other things that go with college life. A dance is a fine exercise and has been indulged in by the people of all times and all nations. The ancient Greeks were exponents of the art, and we can find plenty of references to the pastime in the Bible. To have a good time at a dance, in this age, one really has to dance with someone. And to have the best time, it is necessary that that somebody be of the opposite sex.

Our dances are good dances. We have good music, good dancers, and a good place to dance. So far, so good. If it could be arranged that all those who care to dance, with partners of the opposite sex, could do so our dances would be ideal.

What happens at one of our dances? A few dance, that is a comparatively small number, as compared to those who would dance under different circumstances. Why do not all dance?

First: They are not acquainted. And so far as the writer has been able to judge, no effort is made to get the new boys and girls acquainted. As a rule, the upperclassmen and the members of the fraternities and sororities know each other. And they dance together. No effort, seemingly, is made to introduce the freshmen, and non-sorority and fraternity men and women. Of course the theory is, just "butt-in" and dance. But some of the newer men and women, perhaps, come from places where this is not the custom.

Second: There is a tendency on the part of the men to "hang on to" a good dancer and not pass her around. This is especially true of the upperclassmen. And also of the "frat" boys.

Third: No effort is made, seemingly, to make the new students acquainted with each other at the dances and assist them, both men and women, in securing partners.

The writer is both an upperclassman and a fraternity man. He is perfectly willing to take his share of the blame for this existing condition. If any one does not believe that it exists, just ask some of the new students that attended the last dance at the Administration building, recently.

What are we going to do about it?
E. T.

Education

I love education because in the country from which I came only the rich could afford it, and the poorer class had to go through the school of hard knocks, and I have graduated from that school. I began life as a peddler but, poor as I have been, my two daughters and my son have gone through the state university and my son is also a graduate of Harvard Law School. He is now an assistant state attorney general. I believe the only solution for making this world a better place to live in is education.—This statement from a leading citizen and state officer of one of our American commonwealths suggests the kind of tribute which citizens in every community are ready to bring as their contribution to American Education Week.

TIME

Longfellow certainly hit the nail on the head when he incorporated into his "Psalm of Life" the verse, "Art is long, and time is fleeting." The more one strives toward that goal of real art, the more he comes to realize that the race is not to be won by everyday efforts, but that the price to be paid is one of loneliness, hard, and long toil.

and most people are not willing to give the price. They would rather have a good time; they would rather seek the glamour of life than its subtleties. Many seek it when they are older, and they too, come to realize the real truth of the words: "time is fleeting."

Warwick Deeping emphasizes the need of undisturbed labor in his "Old Pybus" in which he describes young Sorrel putting a screen over his window so that girls passing by would not disturb him. There are not many things that can not be bought when we are willing to pay the price.

Teaching, for example, is truly a fine art. To become a master one must pay the price. The call of shows, of dances, of parties, and other disturbing elements must go unheeded, and one has to learn to become first of all a scholar. Of course, it is necessary to learn to play and to live a well-balanced life, but to become a master takes a life time, and playing can easily be overdone.—Capaha Arrow.

Memorial

They raised
A tall white shaft,
That stands above
The cities' smoke and roar
In memory of The dead.

I stood
Beneath that shaft,
And visions came
Of bleeding Flanders' fields—
And then I prayed
For peace.—Flora Scheffsky.

Day

The brazen sun is burning in the skies;
I watch the weary red-bird as he flies
Across the limpid water.
And I wonder does it matter—
For I am tired.

—Flora Scheffsky.

Night

The moon is softly shining down on me
Thru the little leaves of this tree,
Whose branches trail the silver stream
Upon whose bank I sit and dream—
For I can rest.

—Flora Scheffsky.

The Russians have a new calendar. It is divided thus: The year consists of 12 months of 30 days each. Five national holidays fall out the 365 days. The month is divided into 6 weeks of 5 days each. Saturday and Sunday thus become lost days. Every worker has one holiday a week, but not all workers have the same day. The year begins like the old calendar year on January 1st.

Articles Are Reviewed by Ernest G. Reid

The Ten Leading Articles of the Month of September, Given in the Review of Reviews Are Scanned by a Senior.

A question that interests the average person more than prohibition or the fall election is, "When Do We Come Out of It?" At least that is the title of an article by Dr. Julius Klein in the American Magazine for September.

Dr. Klein shows that from the number of passports issued, the census figures covering unemployment, and the increase in the number of stockholders in large corporations that the present business depression is near an end. And then goes on to account for such conditions.

The writer believes that the comparatively quick recovery is due to the application of sound scientific advice. To a relative extent we are getting away from ignorance and superstition. Business is more closely knit. Labor is taking on more scientific aspects. Lastly, important headway is being made in eliminating wastes in the costs of distributing commodities.

To drive his car over the measured mile at the rate of 231.5125 miles per hour and yet be disappointed was the experience of Major H. O. D. Seagrave. He had hoped to make 240 miles per hour over the track at Daytona beach. William F. Sturm, writing for the Saturday Evening Post of August 16, gives an account of the incidents of the race as was told by his friend Major Seagrave.

Mr. Sturm, writing from the facts given him, says that one lives in a world of illusion when traveling at this rate of speed. The driver is compelled to give his eyes on the track ahead of him.

Major Seagrave achieved the world's speed record on land but lost his life while trying for the record on water.

The political influence of the United States is enormous. Her material situation re-enforces the political influence. And along with this power the United States seems to need a little more regard for world citizenship. Such is the contention presented by Edwin L. James in an article for the New York Times.

The writer quotes former-President Coolidge when Mr. Coolidge said that because of the natural and inevitable unity of the human race, some day there was bound to be a federation of the world. The indications according to Mr. James are that there will be a federation some time. When will the United States become affiliated with such a movement? Perhaps a little later when she is a world power.

Flying at an altitude of approximately 2500 feet, Richard E. Byrd reached the goal of his southern polar expedition when he dropped the American flag, weighted with a stone from Floyd Bennett's grave, to mark the location of the South Pole. The story of this flight is told in an article written for the National Geographic by Richard E. Byrd, Bert Balchen, Harold Gurnee, and Captain Ashley McKinley were also in the group that had the unusual experience of flying over the bottom of the world and of reaching a place on earth where the only direction was north. This historical flight was accomplished November 28 of last year.

In the story written by Commander Byrd, he brings out the fact that the success of the trip was not accomplished without careful planning, much anxiety, and the use of good judgment in making decisions while enroute on the flight to the Pole.

He presents this contrast in comment on the advancement of polar exploration. The Byrd party was in the air 15 hours and 51 minutes, but Amundson, on his journey to the South Pole was away from civilization for seven months. He is to be honored of the speakers at the State Teachers Meeting in Kansas City, November 12-15.

"Where are we at, where are we going and when?" These questions were asked Colonel Leonard Ayres in a recent interview with him. The gist of the answer received was that when we are in the midst of good times the next depression is manufactured; when in the midst of a depression we are manufacturing the next prosperity.

Mr. John T. Flynn wrote an article for Collier's, August, 1930. He points out that this viewpoint is of value. Col. Ayres is vice-president of the Cleveland Trust Company, a practical economist and a student of business. The indications are that we have about manufactured a prosperity in the present depression and that it will soon be evident. Col. Ayres says that you are prosperous when you make enough to live on decently and have a little more. He believes the trouble begins when production goes on faster than consumption. A surplus then results. The final outcome is depression.

American thinking has become ferinized so that it is characterized by the lack of a critical and analytical attitude. Robert E. Hodges in an article in the Pictorial Review, September, writes to prove this attitude.

Mr. Rogers, instructor at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, lays the blame on the fact that there is a large number of women teachers in the schools. Their teaching consists more of principles of ethics, conduct, and science and government.

"Get me the best pictures in the shortest possible time," is the demand that William Randolph Hearst made of his reporters. Mr. Hearst, one of the outstanding newspaper men of America, realizes the importance of good pictures in the newspaper industry.

The story of the importance of getting the best pictures in the shortest possible time is taken from the September, number of Fortune. The cost of obtaining the picture is overcome by the great increase in sales.

The American likes to obtain his news from pictures. He even has gone so far as to have his favorites, Messrs. Rockefeller, Edison, and Ford among the older men; Lindbergh, the Prince of Wales, and Babe Ruth among the younger men are the ones that the average American likes.

Since the election of Dwight Morrow in the New Jersey Republican Senatorial primary, there has grown up what Robert C. McManus calls the new legend. The September North American Review published the account of Mr. McManus regarding the situation. People have begun to talk of the personality and capacity of Mr. Morrow, former Ambassador to Mexico. This is the so-called new legend.

Mr. McManus admits that people have thought Mr. Morrow over-rated. However, he has a number of achievements to his credit. Some of Mr. Morrow's outstanding work includes drafting the project by which government credit in Cuba was restored, acting as Chairman of the Coolidge Aircraft Board and his work in Mexico.

What collectors we are! It has come down through the ages: this instinct to collect if it may be termed that. And Leonard Fulkner in his Mentor-Folk Traveler for September has called our attention to this very thing. There are the Pharaohs, the Greeks and the Romans, the old kings of France, the German emperors and even King George of Britain who were great collectors.

Mr. Fulkner sees the reflection of the past few years in the curios that have been collected. There is the moustache cup, the bone tray, and perhaps some day golden oak will be collected.

Morality in Russia under the Soviet government is the general theme of William C. White from the topic "Moscow Morals" in the September number of Scribner's. More specifically, Mr. White is concerned with the marriage question in Russia.

According to him the law implies that no child be considered illegitimate. However, divorce for couples with children is difficult to obtain. In the case of childless couples, divorce is granted with simplicity. Stress is placed on the property rights of a married woman.

Italy, on October 15th, celebrated the 2,000th anniversary of the birth of Virgil. Celebrations were staged especially in Mantua, the town of his birth; Rome, the city of his career; and Naples, which was the burial place of the poet.

Arctic Explorer and Speaker Is Highly Honored

Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Speaker at the Teachers Meeting This Week, Is Honored For Scientific Contribution.

When Vilhjalmur Stefansson started his third polar expedition in 1913, the world stood aghast, for he departed bearing a theory and purpose so radical as to be pronounced insane by many of the best grounded experts.

He was going into the wilderness of the Northland to live off the country! He was going to find food in places where it had been announced by the Encyclopedia Britannica to be "without animal life." Even some of the members of the party were extremely skeptical over his contention that one could live almost anywhere in the Arctic if he were content to live, not as Americans, but as Eskimos. He found a mutiny on his hands; discussion and resistance—but through it all he held to his purpose and in the end he won out. Stefansson proved this theory and remained in the Arctic for five years.

Born of Icelandic parents in Manitoba, Canada, Stefansson came to the United States as a child and was brought up on the prairies of North Dakota. In 1903 he received from the University of Iowa the degree of A. B., after which he went to Cambridge for postgraduate work at Harvard University. There he held a scholarship for one year and a fellowship for two years, and during the last of these years he was a member of the teaching staff of the Department of Anthropology at Harvard.

In 1906 he turned from teaching to exploring, and joined the Leffingwell-Mikkelsen expedition to the Arctic Ocean, where they spent one winter. Again, in 1913, Stefansson went north to study the Eskimos; this time heading his own expedition.

Since his return in 1918 the geographical societies of the world have recognized his contributions to science by conferring on him the greatest honors. He has been elected an Honorary Fellow of the American Museum of Natural History of New York and of the Italian Geographical Society.

Stefansson is a brilliant and successful writer and is the author of five books and many magazine articles. His lectures are not only instructive but entertaining. A reporter on the New Orleans Picayune wrote into his account of Stefansson's appearance there that he had laughed as wholeheartedly—and quite as unexpectedly—as he had at a lecture given by Irvin Cobb.

The explorer has no set lecture, but varies each address according to his audience.

Class in Guidance Studies Activities

The Vocational Guidance Class 130 under the direction of Mr. Bert Cooper are studying school activities and their organization.

According to Dr. John M. Brewer, Harvard University, the definition of education must include guidance in life activities. His definition is: "Education is improving and extending one's individual and cooperative activities." School activities furnish examples of life activities, and the preparation for adult activities. Student activities furnish opportunity for teaching skills. The classes in social studies and devices teach the technical knowledge and social understanding back of these skills. The activity program of two first class high schools of Northwestern Missouri are cited as exceedingly commendable. Cameron has the following activities: 1. Organizations—football, basketball, track, debate, tank, music, Mystic, Commercial Club, Home Economics Club, "C" Men's Club, and the Pep Squad. Each student is limited to three activities.

2. The school paper which is published and financed by the Journalism class system under the supervision of the faculty treasurer. The finances of all organizations are placed into one activity fund, but each can withdraw only the amount it deposits. Each organization must pay all debts each month by making a requisition on the treasurer.

The activities of the Maryville School are: 1. Organizations—Dramatics Club, Junior and Senior Hi-Y, Girls Reserve, Boys and Girls Glee Club, Mixed Chorus, Vocational Agriculture, Spooferettes, History Club, Commercial Club, Latic Club, Chrytonian, Washingtonian Literary Society, Spoofer, "M" Club, Zeta Sigma, Home Economics, French Club and Hiking Club. 2. Each organization manages its own financial affairs. 3. The incidental fund is managed through a budget system. An optional representative week is paid by the students to hire home room teacher. This fee entitles the student to attend all athletics, plays and social affairs fostered by the school. Practically every student pays the fee. A very important activity which is being used successfully in some schools is student participation in school government.

Student government may be organized by following the charter plan. 1. Executive (with main officers). 2. Legislative (cabinet composed of chief heads of executive departments). They propose laws for student body action. Faculty may pass rules by a two-thirds vote.

3. Judicial (student committee of five or seven members). They hear cases of alleged misconduct. Faculty committee enforces punishment or parent always has right of appeal to principal.

Mrs. Ruth Seeley
Miss Minnie Knoch

Speech Training Is Offered at Union

In brief review it may be said that the Forensic Union provides opportunity for practice in all types of speech making. The open forum discussion on Oct. 1, was of a humorous nature on the question, Resolved: "That Women Should Bear Half the Burden of Dating Expenses."

On Oct. 15, the discussion was of a more serious vane. Cleola Dawson reviewed the current event, "England's Movement Toward Protective Tariff." Margaret Maxwell talked on the subject, "In Defense of the Spendthrift," and Margaret Hatgraves discussed the subject, "Has Radio Replaced Literature?" Following the presentation of each talk came an open forum discussion on that question which proved interesting.

A debate on the Pi Kappa Delta Debate question, Resolved, "That the Nations of the World Should Adopt a Policy of Free Trade," has been planned for Wednesday, October 22. Howard Qualls represents the affirmative and Marvin Shamberger supports the negative.

Carl Blackwelder, head of the Extension Department of Speech reports that the Forensic Union has furnished speakers for some activities in town.

The Intramural Department headed by Margaret Hargrave is endeavoring to make arrangements at the local drug stores for the offering of suitable prizes to men and women winners in the Peace Oratorical Contest preliminary. Further reports on this matter shall be given later.

The Forensic Union is providing opportunity which many students have been longing for, to express in effective speech their own ideas.

H. S. School Paper

A copy of the "Margin and White," a bi-monthly school paper published by the Braddyville, Iowa, high school, has been received at the office of the Northwest Missourian at the College.

Mr. Frank Mann, B. S., 1930, is in charge of the Braddyville schools, and the paper, of which Mr. Mann is sponsor, carries information concerning the activities and organization of the school which shows that the students are active.

Speak at M. E. South

Marvin Shamberger and Howard Qualls, prominent members of the Forensic Union, the credit-bearing speech club devoted to public discussion, debate and extemporaneous speaking, spoke before the College Sunday School class at the M. E. Church South Sunday morning.

Membership in the Forensic Union is open to all (both men and women) who may care for an opportunity to develop their speaking ability, first before members of the club only, then before various audiences provided through arrangement by the chairman of forensic extension activities, Carl Blackwelder, of the Forensic Council.

Student Council Makes Changes in Date Rules

Council President, King, Reads New Rules October 15. Students on Honor and Responsible for Success in School.

Perhaps the most outstanding action of the Student Council in several College terms of school was presented to the student body last Wednesday at assembly, when the student President, "Pat" King, read the newly formulated "date rules." The new rules are a complete revision of the old ones, and according to Mr. King, go into effect immediately.

The new rules have been in the process of formation since the organization of the Council several weeks ago. Completion of the work came last Tuesday night and the affirmation of both the Dean of Women and of the Administration of the College were obtained.

The new regulations are the culmination of several long felt needs in the College in regard to student conduct. The Student Council has made a conscientious effort to study out the difficulties and to remedy them in the best manner possible. It is not the purpose of the new code to invite more laxity, but it is desired to place the student on his or her honor rather than under iron bound regulations, which invite deliberate infringement. It is expected that the students will be wise in their interpretation and that they will not take such advantages of new liberties as to injure their own scholarship. Those who formulated the new rules feel that Collegians are capable of regulating their own affairs to a greater extent than they have been permitted, and are putting confidence into the Student Body to act wisely, so that no reflection will be cast on the decisions of those who made the changes possible.

The new rules:

1. A date is interpreted as a social engagement between a man and woman.
2. Free nights for Juniors and Seniors.
3. Four dates a week for Sophomores until 10:30.
4. Freshman rules remain the same, three dates a week until 10:30.
5. Attendance at any religious meeting, a visit to the library for the purpose of study, attendance at any credit or non-credit discussions or anything pertaining to or meeting for educational purposes, show, or attendance to any games will not be considered a date, if students reach home within a reasonable time after the engagement closes.

Kirkville S. T. C.

Kirkville's football schedule for the remainder of the season is:

- Oct. 24—Westminster College at Kirkville, night.
- October 31—Springfield Teachers at Kirkville, night.
- Nov. 7—Emporia Teachers at Emporia, night.
- Nov. 14—Indiana State Teachers at Kirkville, night.
- Nov. 22—Tahlequah Oklahoma Teachers at Muskogee, Oklahoma.
- Nov. 27—Maryville Teachers at Kirkville.

The Stroller

By T. T. T.

The Stroller was just about in the notion of going duck hunting, but he decided that he better stay on the job for a day or so and get things ready for the big teachers meeting this week. There were two or three little things to be attended to such as: the district orchestra, the state orchestra, the homecoming dinner, the Hornet-Bearcat football game, Dad's Day, the Outdoor basketball tournament, the welcome for Stefansson and one or two other things too numerous to mention.

Oh yes—now for a few statistics—since the cold spell is upon us and the beautiful snow flakes have come flitting down upon us, and it seems there might be a Santa Claus, and some skating and hiking parties—the information comes to us that there has been a great increase in the sale of heavy under-wear. The Post Office reports an increase in the sale of postage stamps evidently the students are writing home for bigger and better clothing.

The Stroller tried to get one of the characters or stage directors of "The Beloved Vagabond," to write an editorial on "Things That Happened Back Stage," but none of them seem to be willing to inform the deserving public so folks you'll just have to guess along with the others of us.

While we are on this public subject it wouldn't be a bad idea possibly to ask George Walter Allen what happened to the few gallons of cider which were not consumed at the Y. M. College mixer.

All the Y. W. girls seem to be interested in Huts. Maybe it's because Stefansson is coming.

The Stroller is wondering which one of the College boys is going to play the hero role in showing all of the visiting teachers a good time this year. At any rate the Stroller surely wants them all to have a good time and he is hereby speaking for volunteers and for a few hours off to say Hi-Yah-there! and "Hello You-All!" to the visitors and friends.

A bit of information has come to light for the Stroller and may help him to help the public concerning the football trip to Memphis, Tennessee, last week. The boys all seemed to enjoy the "Sunny South" despite the fact that they brought back some perfectly beautiful, big blue bruises with them.

Those members of the squad who dearly love nature, and her changing ways made a visit to the square in Memphis where the squirrels and pigeons rule. Of course, the squirrels liked Milner, and, as the girls know, the pigeons made quite a hit with P. A. and insisted upon riding on his shoulder. But if you want to have some fun, just ask "Duck" for an imitation of Dempsey's fighting pose. This is only good for those who are fast on their feet. And talking of feet reminds me of "Runt" Russell. "Runt" tried a berth coming back from Memphis Friday night, but decided it was too short for him, so he curled up in a seat and slept K. O.

So long everybody. See you and the President of the N. E. A. at the teachers meeting.

Scores a Hit

Starring with him and just as popular with the audience was Owen Thompson cast as Tubby Clark, another American of the same wit and democratic spirit as his pal, Jimmie. They saved the Kingdom of Moreno from destruction and both won the hand of a princess.

Cecile Gist and Ruth Miller carried the roles of the Princess Mary and the Princess Pat in a very pleasing and professional manner.

Wilbur Pettigrew, who starred in "The Thirteenth Chair," and other local College presentations in the past, has another record to add to his good work in the characterization he gave as the Marquis de Monsay, primo minister of Moreno.

Prince Albert, the hateful cousin of the princesses, whose tricky schemes to gain the throne in Moreno were thwarted by the Americans, was the role carried by Richard Barrett, who first received special dramatic recognition at the College in "The Charm School" play last year.

Another Drake University student who left his Des Moines home to attend the College here is among the ten-star dramatic students. If Jerome Smith was Romano II, the King of Moreno. His role was perhaps the most difficult one, and he carried it excellently and in a kingly fashion.

Orville Kolin was Ferdie, captain of Prince Albert's royal guards, who plotted with the prince to overthrow the King, and Dorothy Harris was the Marchioness de Monsay, charming wife of the Marquis. These parts were also well played.

Irish wit was brought into the play by Ruth Milligan, cast as Bridget O'Flynn, who came from America to be the maid in the royal household, whose sympathies were always with the Yankers.

Alice Cline and Fausta Wycoff were the beautiful ladies of the court who appeared on the stage at the opening scene of the play. They helped to get the play off to a good start.

Following is the cast of characters: Jimmie Smith, from the land of the free and the home of the brave—Dale Missillidino.

Tubby Clark, Jimmie's pal, also from the old U. S. A.—Owen Thompson.

Marquis de Monsay, Prime Minister of Moreno—Wilbur Pettigrew.

Marchioness de Monsay, Wife of the Marquis de Monsay—Dorothy Harris.

Romano II, King of Boozay—and how!—Jerome Smith.

Princess Mary and Princess Pat, King Romano's two lovable daughters—Cecile Gist and Ruth Miller.

Prince Albert, The hateful cousin of the princesses—Richard Barrett.

Ferdie, Captain of Prince Albert's Royal Guards—Orville Kolin.

Bridget O'Flynn, A bit of "auld" Ireland via New York—Ruth Milligan.

Ladies of the Court, Essential in any successful "court" (tennis courts included)—Alice Cline, Fausta Wycoff.

Dr. Haig Arklin Gives Art Lecture

Reproductions of fifteen great masterpieces of the world were exhibited at the College assembly Wednesday morning in connection with a lecture on "Art," by Dr. Haig Arklin, artist, critic, and doctor. President Lamkin introduced the artist to the student body.

For two years Dr. Arklin was in the Old World painting copies from famous works. He has given twenty years of his life in traveling from coast to coast lecturing to thousands of university, college, high school and grade students with the hopes of bringing them to a greater appreciation of the fine qualities of art.

The fifteen pictures which Dr. Arklin considers the greatest in the realm of art and which he exhibited to the student body include "St. Michael Conquering," by Guido Reni; "God-dess of Discord," and "Fighting Temerairie," by Turner; "Duchess of Devonshire," by Sir Joshua Reynolds; "Laughing Cavalier," by Frans Hals; "Descent From the Cross," by Rubens; "Aurora," by Reni; "Jupiter and Antiope," by Correggio; "Sacred and Profane Love," and "Tribute Money," by Titian; "Madonna and the Child," and "Sistine Madonna," by Raphael; "Adam and Eve," by Michelangelo; "Last Supper" and "Mona Lisa," by Da Vinci.

Dr. Arklin says that there is little appreciation in America directed toward art and culture in art; that all of the interest and appreciation is in material wealth and the resources of the country.

Stephen G. LaMar was in charge of the devotional period preceding the lecture and art exhibition. The song-prayer was given by the Y. M. C. A. quartet composing Owen Thompson, Albert Hagan, Ben Thompson, and William Alsop.

Tournament

The basketball games will continue on Friday evening and will run through Saturday.

Only one team from each county will be eligible to compete at the College. Schools should therefore get in touch with the County Athletic Associations and decide the county winner. County Tournaments should be held by November 1st. When the county team has been selected the secretary of the association must be notified as soon as possible in order that proper arrangements can be made.

High Schools that have not done so should send the District High School Association dues to the secretary at the College. The dues were $1.00 until October 15. For each succeeding month thereafter an extra 50c must be added. Payment of the association dues also entitles schools to compete in district debates and other inter-school contests.

Schools should pay not only the District High School Association dues but also the State Athletic Association dues in order to be eligible to compete in interschool contests.

The names of the managers for the counties in the District have been selected as follows: Andrew, Cecil Jenkins, Savannah, County Supt.; Atchison, Supt. A. C. Williams, Fairfax, Mo. Supt. Daleview; Buchanan, E. L. Birkhead, St. Joseph, Mo. County Supt.; Caldwell, D. N. McClintock, Kingston, Mo. County Supt.; Carroll County, J. E. Evans, Carrollton, Mo. County Supt.; Clay County, W. S.
